Welcome to this Fourth Sunday of Easter, where we are reminded of Christ as our Good Shepherd – the One who knows us, calls us by name, and leads us into life in all its fullness. May we find comfort in His guiding presence, strength in His voice, and peace in His care for each one of us.

Whether you are joining us for the first time or are part of our church family, we are truly glad you are here. May this time together renew your spirit and deepen your faith.

You are welcome. You belong. Christ is risen indeed—Alleluia!

What's trending !!!

Life can sometimes be like a road trip. On our way to a particular destination, we may need to navigate different seasons. It is useful to stop and ask ourselves – Where am I now? The answer has a significant impact on how we approach our next destination.

Have you experienced a day or week where your emotions fluctuate between “I am crushing this” to “I am being crushed”?
Then you will be able to resonate with Jairus’s day.

Can you relate to the slow increase of resentment because you prayed but God did not show up?
Then Mary may become an inspiration for you.

Can you relate to the frustration of having your career advancing quickly in the right direction, only to suddenly hit a roadblock?
Then Paul’s story may open your eyes to new career attitudes.

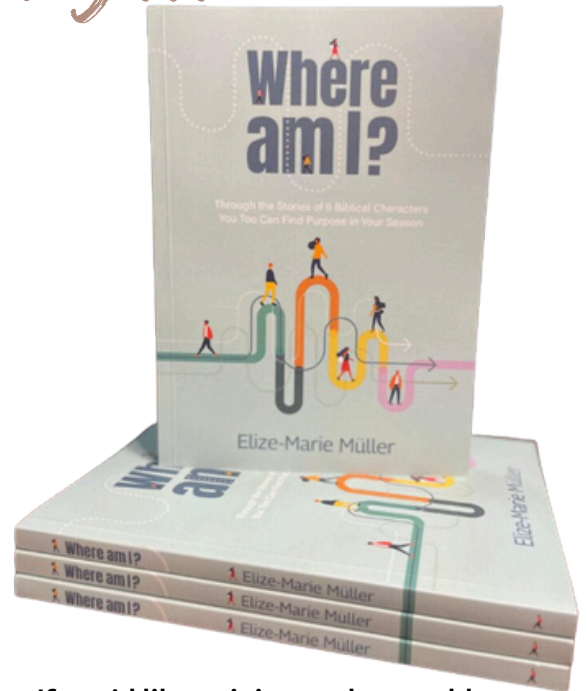

Do you at times feel unseen? Like everyone else is making a difference in their space and you cannot see how you are contributing anything significant.
Then Rahab’s role will give you a new perspective on influence.

Where am I? is a book that introduces you to 9 biblical characters who have experienced the emotions and challenges that you may currently be going through. It invites you to learn from their attitudes and choices, and at the same time, discover the goodness of God throughout every season you may face.
